DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The amendment filed 8/10/06 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132(a) because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132(a) states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material which is not supported by the original disclosure is as follows: "... a bat leveled during engagement by said at least one jaw...". (with respect to claims 1 and 25-35)

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-13 & 25-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Evers et al. (USPN 6,126,062) in view of Comulada et al. (USPN 5,905,566).

Evers et al. discloses a clamping and self-leveling frame for boards. The device has clamps sides, which are movable or compliant. The device levels the board prior to machining or fabrication processing.

Evers et al. does not specifically teach the use of laser machining.

Comulada et al. discloses the laser ablation of a substrate, which uses a chuck with a leveling device.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use laser machining as taught by Comulada et al. on the article in the Evers et al. self leveling clamp device because it is merely a type of fabrication.

Intended use has been continuously held not to be germane to determining the patentability of the apparatus. In re Finsterwalder 168 USPQ 530, In re Casey 152 USPQ 235, Ex parte Masham 2 USPQ 2d 1647, Ex parte Thibault 164 USPQ 666.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 8/10/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that a bat is not the same as a substrate and hence the prior art is not applicable. The examiner respectfully disagrees and notes that although a bat and a substrate are different, the invention is directed towards an automatic leveling fixture. Whether a substrate or a bat is placed in the leveling fixture is not at issue but rather the fixture itself. In response to applicant's argument that a bat is not a substrate and hence the prior art is not applicable; a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. The prior art references are capable of performing the apparatus function, that is, leveling of a workpiece and hence meet all the limitations of instant claims.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
